

From Sean Ripple <sripple@gmail.com>
To curatorial@diaart.org
Date Thu, Apr 15, 2010 at 5:06 PM Subject I Stand at the Door and Knock mailed-by gmail.com

Hello Dia Art Foundation,

I have a yet to be realized project that I would love to exhibit in your space. The idea is simple... I would attempt to replicate photos taken by members of the flickr community who shoot with the same camera that I do using photo properties that are available on flickr. The exhibition would be the outcome of these attempts. Of course, there will be discrepancies between versions based on uncontrollable variables such as physical differences of actors filling in for roles of the subjects of original photographs and differences in location, but the the photos will resemble each other in essence.

I hope that you will agree to host the exhibition, but understand that it is highly unlikely.

All the best,

Sean

www.seanripple.net

www.youtube.com/rippleflatlife

www.incurve.blogspot.com